

THE RED DOOR COUNTRY HOUSE

A little about us...

Here at The Red Door Country House, we aim to showcase our menu which tells the story of our food and the history of the house. We pride ourselves on sourcing products as close to home as possible with all our fruit, vegetables, and meat all sourced locally.

The flavours that we represent in our menu arise from the landscape and seasons that surrounds us, in particular from the County Donegal. It is here we find our inspiration.

By capturing the essence of each ingredient grown and picked daily by our suppliers at Ballyholey farm, we strive to show its roots and to tell its story.

From the land and sea, from our producers and suppliers, our menu is made up of many hands, many people working collectively together to maintain and uphold our traditions, new and old.

Much of our menu is made up of wild ingredients. We believe these ingredients showcase the unique terroir of the northwest of Ireland.

Local meats, wild herbs and wild mushrooms populate our menu.

We employ many culinary traditions: salting, curing, pickling, fermentation, and Smoking, represent for us the continuation of our shared food heritage on this island.

“Food is not fuel. Food is about family, food is about community, food is about identity. And we nourish all those things when we eat well.”

Michael Pollan
